Grand Jury, Mootenay. Those who have read the synopsis of M Justice Gray's charge to the Grand Jury at Kootemy, published in our issue of Saturday last, cannot but have observed what a complete refutation is therein contained of all the blatant nonsense in which our morning contemporary has of late been indulging concerning the demoralized condition of society is that distant part of the Province. Surely the people of Koutenay District will not thank the Colonies for the pains it has taken to Comedy, Humor & Oratory represent them as living in a state of anarchy and confusion, disregarding law and trampling order under their feet. The wish was father to the thought on the part of our con temporary, but the tacts are sadly against it. His Lordship had no criminals to try, for which he took occasion to congratulate both the jury and the country. The absence of crime, he observed, was gratifying to himself, because he preferred being the messenger of peace to the messenger of punishment. No Assizes had been held at Kootenay for eight years previous to his visit, and it certainly speaks volumes in praise of the people of that district that not a single case of crime N. B.—Pref. SCHAFFER'S String Band will be i was on the docket of the Court to engage his Lordship's attention. The fact is a very remarkable one, when it is borne in mind that that community is composed, as the Judge remarked, of men of different nationalfties, pursuing occupations supposed to have the effect of gathering together in mining districts persons of loose and disorderly habits. It shows that there is something in the very name of British law that inspires respect and exerts a restraining influence upon those who might under different circumstances be dison the Pacific Coast, save in British Columbia, could a community of men be found, isolated as the people of Kootensy are from the fountains of justice and dwelling upon the very borders of a foreign country, affording unusual facilities of escape to those who Peace for the Province of British Columbia:are criminally disposed, so exemplary in their conduct and obedient to the laws. Although men did " walk around not knowing the moment they would be compelled to protect their respective interests," it is very clear PROGRAMME OF that such was not the result of actual necessity arising from a want of due respect for the law, or because there was any reason to fear that the arm of the law was not sufficiently potent to protect the people in the enjoyment of their rights as citizens and their persons from injury. For eight years the people of Kootenay bad been left without the sence of a Judge of the Supreme Court to administer the law amongst them, and for such neglect they certainly had just cause of complaint. Butsurely the present Government are not to be beld accountable for that. Is it not rather greatly to their credit that they are the first in eight years to have dispatched a Judge and officers of the Supreme Court to that dis tant part of the Province to look after the people's interests there and to uphold the ejecty of the law? They now have the his Lordship pertinently expressed it, will give "confidence to business, encouragement to labor, and security that the results of their industry and good conduct will enure to their own benefit and not become the spoil of the den by Officers of Her Majesty's Navy, catch weights, dissolute and Idib." The remarks of his Lordship in reference to the improvement of the means of communication in the Kootenay District, and these are just as applicable to other districts in the interior, are deserving of the careful and candid consideration of all thoughtful men. Owing to the want of roads to get the produce of the country to market every article necessary for consumption or health used or consumed in that district cost three or four times its original selling price, and hence all the money they could make, "unless it rained gold," would not enable anything from their hard earnings. Roads are indispensably necessary to the settlement and development of the country, and it is expected of the Government that they shall provide the means to pay for their construction ; but in what other way can they do so, better calculated to accomplish the object, than by the imposition of a moderate road tax suc as they have already adopted? The Colonist has exerted all the influence it could com mand to foment dissatisfaction and create prejudice against the Government on account of the collection of this road tax, particularly in the mainland districts. Judge Gray administered a fitting rebace to the Coloniet for its factions rantings on this subject. When he told the people of Kootenay "they should mother affiel of taxation, which was a matter that depends upon themselves and was regulated by their own representatives." He properly directed simply meant a distribution of the burden of public expenditure in properlies to the benefit conferred, to be borne proportionately by all parties. That it meant at the present day, raising money, not simply to keep old things as they were, but to develop new, for the general benefit of the parties without having first obtained the permission of the ball, so that in proportion as each man constituted in the constitution of the law, and that in proportion as each man constitution of the law, and the law of the law.

"Cheap, Masty and Dirty," In reply to "Cheap, Nasty and Dirty's" remarks in your paper of the 22nd inst. we beg to say if the article with the above heading which appeared in the Colonist, was clever and to the point it would be base of us to derrive the real writer, whoever he may be, of his honors. The imputation is of no great importance, in fact we were inclined to let the Snarleyow of Yale and his slanderous remarks pass with silent contempt, and allow him to retire into that silent abyss which nature had intended him for. Now we have all a right to criticize the actions of our officials, from the Governor to the jailor, so that the public servants may be kert in check, so as not to abuse the duties entrusted to them; a fair and just criticism is a public necessity. This "Dirty" slanderer says "that the pec ple of Yale will bear him out in saying that the duties of constable and gaoler as also that of Government agent at this place are as efficietly and promptly performed as at any time during the history of Yale." Now we beg to differ from "Dirty's" glowing account of the efficiency of this "Jack-of-all work" and butler par excellance, and distinctly say that the present Government agent does not give satisfaction to a majority of the people of

In regard to the two days search for the prisoners who escaped from our jail, we are surprised that this efficient officer did not continue his search a little further, when his first Lieutenant was here in charge, and everything lovely. Now if he had continued his sea ch as far as Sumass we believe he would have little or no diffi-culty in arresting them. We are told that they are at present hired out to some of the farms in that district. "Dirty's" remarks in regard to the frontier line are more apropos to himselt; we believe he is moving in that direction, and the time may soon come when he will find himself seated on the Olympian bills regretting bis "black" deeds while visiting the placid waters of Puget Sound. Williams lake ranch was not cold. G. H. Mitchell bought the Soda creek mach for $7,500. The interest in the Deep creek mill was purchased by Mr. R. A. Col-lins. The sale realized about $12,700.

The Cariboo Sentinel of the 25th inst .. - the last issue of the season, -has the following : There is a complete dearth of mining pews this week; the only item of interest being from Antler creek, where the Nason company have mastered the water, having drained the mine after three bours' pumping. The min-ers on the different creeks are busily engaged fixing up for winter.

A cabin at the foot of Stout's gulch was destroyed by fire on Monday last, and the oc-cupant—Solomon Jones—lost his blankets, stove, etc. The bucket brigade were quickly on the spot, and by their exertions prevented the fire from spreading to the adjoining premises, occupied by the celebrated ice cream man, "Billy Bright."

Winter is rapidly approaching. A little snow has fallen lately, and we have rather stiff frosts night and day.

> AMUSEMENTS .- On Saturday night the Megaletoscopticon was exhibited for the first time at the theatre, displaying some very fine scenes in Chinese and other life. To juvenites especially the entertainment should prove amusing and instructive. The Phil-harmonic Hall was patronized by a large number of skaters who entered into this healthful exercise with great spirit. As a skating rink this hall is scarcely second to any on the Pacific slope, and cannot be ex-celled as a ballroom or place for public en-tertainments or meetings. It will be seen in our advertising columns that Mrs. F. Saunders has organized a dancing class for every Tuesday and Friday evening, and has secured the services of Prof. Schaffer's celebrated string band. There are also many other en-tertainments on the tapis for which the Philparmonic will be engaged.

THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY .- Mr. Richardson will shortly leave for Burrard Inlet to spend few days examining this section of the P.ovince before leaving for Ottawa, which will be in two or three weeks. His season's collection of minerals, fossils, etc., are being prepared to be sent to the east. The work done during the past season is very valuable in the interests of the Province, in so far as the geological resources of the country are concerned. Ironstone of great wealth, new seams of coal, copper, white marble, etc., have been discovered. Millions of tons of Province early next spring.

JAMES BAY SQUARE is about to be improved and embellished by the planting of trees and shrubbery; a fence will be erected around it the cure of bad legs, all sorts of wounds, as a protection from the inroads of cattle and sores, and likewise scrofula and scorbutic pigs. This has long been talked of and affections, this Ointment produces a cooling urged, and it has at length fallen to the lot of the present Government to carry out the project. Taft tells one that has ust occurred at his cozy quarters, but a sly wink after the whispering was over enjoined the preservation of the strictest incognite of all the parties concerned. It happened on the brighest and most deliciouly cool day of the week, when the atmosphere, and the skies themselves seemed attuned to the event which was celebrated. Eight married gentlemen of They wished to have everything complete, and going to Taft they gave him carte blanche for serving them up such a feast as they wantthe resources and appliances of Taft's cuisine were brought into requisition.

But mean while the wives of the eight gentlenen got wind of the affair. They learned to their just indignation that their husbands were preparing for a grand feast for their sole edification, and that eight plates only were to be laid at their table. Without waiting for an explanation they dispatched a messenger to Taft's and duplicated their husbands' order, to be served in a separate dining-room. The bills of fare were to be identical, with the exception of cigars, and the strictest all-ence enjoined. Not even a hint or a whisper was to pass between the husbands and the tandlord. The hour appointed for the two dinners came, and the hasbands sat down to their dinners, and the wives to theirs. The tables bore the results of Tafts unrivalled taste and skill, and nothing was omitted to make it complete in every detail. Fish, birds and all yielded their delicious mouthfuls, while the shining plate and excellent service

The Murillo.

The Dover special correspondent of the Daily News, writing on Sept. 23, describes the taking of the Murillo. He says:

"The Murillo, the Spanish ressel which eight months ago all England was on the qui vive to gain intelligence of, is this evening lying quietly at ancher within gun-shot of Dover Pier—a long, low, narrow screw steamer, painted black above the water line, with two stunted black funnels showing amidships, and the sharp prow sitting high in the water, suggest-ing her ballast-laden condition. The circumstances of the vessel's capture are curions, and are full of remarkable coincidences. It was on the night of the 22nd January that the Northfleet was stricken amidships by the unknown steams. er which sent 400 human beings to a sudden death, and it was on the evening of the 22 September, exactly eight months later, that the very officer who had taken the despositions of the survivors of the wreck brought into the port where those survivors had landed the long looked for steamer against which the grave allega-tion of being the cause of the disaster has persistently laid. Further it is not the least remarkable incident in the story that, when the startling news reached Dover that the Murillo was actually in the roadstead, Mrs. Knowles, the wife of the gallant captain of the Northfleet, should have chanced to be in the town, the guests of a gentleman who distinguist ed himself for his humanity and gener-ousity throughout the whole of the proceedings consequent upon the wreck.
